"GLENDALE WELFARE CHEST" NOW A REALITY

Kiwanis Club Agrees to Underwrite $500 of Anti-Narcotic Fund

Our City Comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Rate Asked by Daily Press for City Printing Same as Lowest That Merchants Pay

THE Glendale city council voted last night to reject all city printing on the claim that the bids submitted were too high.

We hope the reason given is a true one, which we doubt. Our only reason for having any doubt is knowing on whose motion the action was taken.

Sam Davis made the motion and if he was really conscientious in trying to save money for the taxpayer, we want to commend him. In the past Sam has shown no deside to save the taxpayers money. As we have watched his political career, we have always found him keenly anxious to spend it freely.

* * *

IN submitting our bid for the city printing, we named a price which is as low as our lowest rate. While the rate is higher than the price we charged last year, it is because our circulation is considerably larger and advertising rates are always based on circulation.

We are always for keeping our taxes down and we offer no censure for any honest attempt to save money in city expenses whether it be for city printing or any other item of expense.

* * *

WE do think, however, that if the city council had taken the trouble to make an investigation of our bid, comparing it with rates charged in other cities, and with those of newspapers of the same circulation, they would have found that the Glendale Press works for the interests of our city in an unselfish way and does not take advantage by trying to get a higher rate out of the city than our merchants pay. We had hoped that our new council would profit by experience of the past and quit taking snap judgment.

THE arguments on which the city council members were basing their action in refusing to pave that part of Colorado street in front of the old High school plant were exploded at last night's meeting of the council.

The statement has been made that certain schools were designated by the council in preparing the figure of $35,000 for which the recent bond election was called.

City Engineer Dupuy told the city council last night that no particular schools were named in connection with the bond issue.

* * *

THE matter of improving the street in front of the Pacific avenue school was under discussion. This particular paving is being held up on the contention that no provision had been made for it in the bond issue.

Councilman Kimlin in his remarks on the matter made the following statement: "I don't believe we can spend this money for work before the Pacific avenue school any more than we can before the High school."

* * *

WE agree with Councilman Kimlin in this stand. We believe, however, that arrangements should be made whereby this matter will be settled for all time. There is no legitimate excuse that we know of for money collected from the people for educational purposes being used in paving streets. It should make no difference whether the street happens to be before a high school or a grammar school.

One thing is certain, that if any money is used by school authorities for other than educational purposes it must in some way be diverted from its legitimate use. The income of schools is set, the only change being caused by increased valuation.

* * *

THE reason for an increase in valuation in most cases is in the building of additional homes to take care of increased population.

The city authorities are not so situated as regards their income, for they can increase it as they find it necessray to do so.

This paving is a small matter for the council to worry so much over. The people pay the cost, regardless of what agency it comes through. We hold the proper agency to be the city, leaving school funds for school purposes.

AUTO STOLEN AT GATEWAY THEATRE

An automobile belonging to D. E. Loper of the Gateway theatre was stolen from in front of the theatre between the hours of 8 and 9:30 o'clock Wednesday night, according to the police records. It is, it is understod, still missing.

WELFARE CHEST ORGANIZED BY COMMITTEE

Thirty Present to Act Upon Momentous Question

With celerity, unanimity and business-like procedure, initial steps were taken at a meeting of the preliminary committee at the Chamber of Commerce Thursday night to organize the Community Chest, although the suggested name was "Glendale Welfare Chest."

Chairman W. E. Hewitt presided and Secretary Burton McGinnis read the report embodying the plan of organization recommended by the committee of five, the full text of which will be found elsewhere in this paper.

About thirty were present, most of them members of the original committee. The motion to adopt the report was made by George Karr and caried unanimously. Chaiman Hewitt then announced that the next move would be the selection of twelve people to form a board of directors upon whom will fall the responsibility of appointing the different committees and determining when and how the drive shall be made; that it will also be up to the board to confer with the organizations which will be beneficiaries.

He called attention to the fact that Los Angeles is forming a chest and that it is already in successful operation in Alhambra and Pasadena; that the secretary in the city last named had assured him it is a wonderful success there, where last year $160,000 was raised to finance it, the budget planned for this year being $190,000. Pasadena is a city of 60,000, and its subscribers numbered 5400, the average subscription being $3.50, and the participation being much larger than under the old system. "There," said he, " they appoint captains, the captains appoint workers, the city is districted and everybody gets a chance to do something. It will be easy here if properly organized."

NEARLY 10 MILLION RAISED IN NATION FOR JAPAN FUND

Every One of Seven Red Cross Divisions Exceeds Goal

The Glendale chapter of the American Red Cross is in receipt of an interesting letter from the national organization dated at Washington, September 24, announcing results of the nation-wide drive for Japanese relief. It states that results from the seven Red Cross divisions of the country total $9,702,700, or a much larger sum than was the original goal; that the Central and Southwest divisions were responsible for an increase of nearly $200,000. Every division exceeded its original quota, two of them, Washington and Central, having more than trebled the amount originally asked for. The returns from the Pacific coast division, October 1, were $1,399,489.

National headquarters also announces that it has purchased five hospital buildings for immediate shipment to Japan as part of the relief program for earthquake victims. They will be included in a cargo of lumber that is being loaded at Portland, Oregon.

The communication also states that pending advices from the Imperial Relief bureau, the American Red Cross has stopped the purchase of supplies for shipment which could be obtained there. The shipments will be confined to such necessities as are not obtainable across the Pacific. The foreign office of the United States has been advised that the food emergency has been met.

The Japanese began its work with an appropriation of 5,000,000 yen. It has mobilized all branches in Japan, Korea and Manchuria.

LLOYD GEORGE SAYS WASHINGTON REAL EMPIRE FOUNDER

[By Associated Press]

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—David Lloyd George, former premier of England, in an address here today at a luncheon given in his honor by the United Press association, shortly after his arrival on American shores, said, "I claim that the real foundation of the British empire today was George Washington. He taught us to become democratic.

"That lesson taught us in the 18th century," he added, "has been the salvation of the British empire." He said that Washington had taught the British government to be more lenient and he cited as proof of this the case of the Dominion of Canada.

NEW PARKING ACT NOW BEFORE COUNCIL

The new parking ordinance for the city of Glendale was introduced in the council Thursday night by Councilman Horn, and was declared read for the first time and laid over until the next meeting, when, it is understood, it will be passed.

This ordinance establishes one-hour parking on Brand boulevard between the northerly line of Colorado and the southerly line of California street, and on Broadway from the easterly line of Central avenue to the westerly line of Louise street.

According to the present draft of the ordinance the one hour parking law will maintain on the streets mentioned between the hours of 9 o'clock in the morning and 6 o'clock at night.

It also states that no automobile shall be permitted to stand in any public alley at any time, and that the right front and rear wheels of all machines shall be within one foot of the curbing, when those cars are parked parallel to the curb.

HEWITT MAKES EARNEST PLEA FOR SEWER VOTE

At a meeting of the Community Chest committee, held at the Chamber of Commerce Thursday evening, a report of which will be found elsewhere, there was time for a little discussion of the campaign for the proposed bond election for a sewer system, and W. E. Hewitt, who has the matter strongly at heart, made a little speech in which he said:

"I want to call attention to the contract which has been entered into with the city of Los Angeles which gives Glendale the right to connect with her sewer. We should be interested enough to investigate that contract and see if it is a good thing for Glendale. In my opinion it is the best thing we can do. Some say it would be cheaper to annex, but this, it seems to me, is not true. If we had to wait for annexation it probably could not be effected under a year and after we got in, if they should do the same things to us they did to Hollywood, we would not get sewers for five years.

"We are spending over $100,000 for cesspools now and we are sitting over a seething mass of pollution here in Glendale. We must have sewers and have them right away. We must get behind our city council and when the election for the bonds comes up, get out and vote. The million dollar issue will cover the trunk lines and intercepting lines, practically all the cost except for the laterals which the abutting property will pay for. Investigate, but by all means get out and vote for the sewers."

MRS. GEO. PRICKETT WAS COUSIN OF MISS THOMAS

Mrs. Geo. Prickett of 159 South Columbus was a cousin of Miss Suzanne Thomas, Pasadena school teacher killed at Tujunga last Sunday and whose body is now en route to the little mountain town of Stow, Vt., her birthplace, for burial. Mrs. Prikett's mother, Mrs. S. S. Bailey, will make her home in the future with Miss Thomas' mother, her sister, who is left alone by her daughter's death.

COUNCIL TANGLED ON THE $35,000 SCHOOL BONDS

Find No Particular Schools Named When Bonds Were Voted

No particular schools were named in connection with the $35,000 bonds voted some time ago by the citizens of Glendale for improvement of the streets before school property, according to a statement made to the Glendale city council Thursday night by City Engineer Dupuy.

"There were three sets of estimates prepared in connection with the improvement of the streets before the schools of the city," stated Mr. Dupuy. "These three were combined and a figure of about $40,000 was the result. We figured that by careful work we could do the work for $35,000 and that is why that figure was determined on. There were no particular schools named in connection with this bond issue."

This admission was made by Engineer Dupuy in the discussion of the improvement of the street in front of the Pacific avenue school, which work was held up.

"There is no provision, I understand," said Councilman Kimlin, "for the improvement of this stretch in the $35,000 bonds, and I am not going to vote that money for any other purpose than was originally intended or for work before any other schools than those mentioned in the original estimates.

"I believe the school board," responded Mr. Dupuy, "is willing to have that money spent for the improvement of streets before any of the grammar schools. They take the attitude that there is more money where that $35,000 came from."

"That does not change my attitude," said Councilman Gimlin, "I don't believe we can spend this money for work before the Pacific avenue school any more than we can before the high school."

"The school board should be instructed," said Councilman Horn, "that estimates for property to be acquired hereafter must include the price of the street work adjacent to that property."

After considerable discussion it was decided to have the matter referred to the school board by the city engineer.

County Planners to Meet With San Fernando Roaders

A meeting between the property owners on San Fernando road and the county planning commission will be held at the Cerritos Avenue school in South Glendale, on October 17 at 7 o'clock p. m., according to an announcement to the Glendale city council Thursday night by Mrs. Bacon, a property owner on that street.

Upon being invited to be present at that session the members of the council stated that, if possible, the entire body would attend this meeting.

Mrs. Bacon stated that they had canvassed San Fernando road from the southern to the northern city limits and that there is very little opposition to the widening of that thoroughfare 10 feet on either side between those points.

The meeting is to be held in an endeavor to cooperate with the county planning commission in this matter. Mrs. Bacon stated that at least five property owners along that road are waiting to see what will be done in this matter before starting business blocks. She said, also, that the county plans to widen the San Fernando road from San Fernando to Avenue 20 in Los Angeles.

Council Gives $3000 to C. of C. Committee

The Glendale city council Thursday night authorized the payment of $3000 from the advertising and promotion fund of the city to the advertising committee of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, as agreed upon some time ago, the money to be used exclusively in advertising Glendale.

During the past few weeks the advertising committee of the chamber has conducted an extensive campaign of advertising Glendale, and it is to help defray the expenses of this campaign that this money will be used, it is understood.

STREET WORK TAKES MUCH OF COUNCIL'S TIME

Order Improvements, Hear Protests, Pass Ordinances

The matter of the improvement of Concord street, which includes the construction of a storm drain to cost about $2000, was laid over for one week by the Glendale city council. Mr. Wildey of the firm of Edwards & Wildey appeared in person to protest against the work, stating that his company would have to stand most of the expense, regardless of the fact that the water that makes the drain necessary is dumped on his property by the land higher up, which, he thought, should be assessed for the drain.

The 19 per cent protests against the improvement of Chilton, Belleview and Alameda with water pipe, was denied.

The hearing to set aside as a commercial district the corner of Palmer and Adams was held and as there were no protests the next step in this work was ordered taken.

The hearing of protests against the establishment of a commercial district on Fourth from Raymond to Thompson was set for October 18.

A petition for the improvement of Thompson avenue was received and the next step in this work was ordered taken.

A petition was received for the improvement of Pioneer between Central and Columbus, and the city engineer was instructed to start the necessary proceedings.

Bids for the improvement of Vista Court, Green street, Fourth street and Hillside drive were opened and referred to the city engineer for checking and report.

An ordinance for the establishing of the grade on Hill drive was offered.

An ordinance for the establishing of the grade on a portion of Windsor road was offered.

A resolution ordering the work on Belleview, Chilton and Alameda was adopted.

A resolution ordering the superintendent of plant and production to bid on the improvement of Belleview, Chilton and Alameda was adopted.

An ordinance was introduced for the opening and widening of Raymond avenue.

Map of tract No. 7055 was adopted.

An extension of sixty days was granted Peter L. Ferry on the improvements of Highland avenue.

A similar extension was granted W. J. Kern on the improvement of Wing street.

The petition of Dr. Eckles to construct and use an incinerator in the alley just west of Brand between Broadway and Wilson was denied.

In response to a petition by Mrs. Sidney Dell for better transportation service in the northeast section of the city the council decided to endeavor to have the Pacific Electric establish one or two more stops on its Casa Verdugo line.

The Glendale Athletic club was granted permission to hold athletic contests in the hall on Brand boulevard near Wilson on October 16.

The owners of the two automobile camps in the city were instructed to appear before the council within 5 days and show cause as to why their permits should not be revoked.

An ordinance was introduced for the inspection of all day nurseries in the city.

Another ordinance, regulating garages, filling stations and the like in Glendale was introduced.

On motion of Councilman Davis $450 was ordered transferred from the capital outlay to the salary division of the superintendent of the building department, this to take care of the salary of the new employes of that department.

On motion of Councilman Horn W. B. Bear was granted a permit for a 15-foot set-back line at 308 North Central avenue.

AIRPLANES FLY TOO LOW SAYS MRS. HOOD

The airplanes are flying too low over the northwest part of the city, according to a complaint filed with the Glendale police force by Mrs. Hood of Mountain street, who wanted to know if there is not some way that the local police can force the aviators and their cars to stay up where they belong. The complaintant was informed that there is no way that this matter can be handled by the local police.

THEM DAILY PRESS CLASSIFIED ADS DO BEAT 'EM ALL

Oh, boy!

How those phones rang!

The clatter started at 8 o'clock this morning and it did not quit until noon—and after. The noise was frightful. Sounded just like the Trinity chimes on the war path.

Folks going by the door looked in, horrified. They telephoned the police, the fire department, the doctor and the undertaker, and some even went so far as to pick out the lot in the cemetery.

An investigation proved that it was only the three classified telephones of the Glendale Daily Press carrying on—and they were not idle a moment all morning.

More than two pages of classified today is the result.

"Them Press classified ads is world beaters," says one of our leading merchants.

AFFIRMS DECREE AGAINST VESPER AND ROBINSON

Appeals Court Concurs in Judgment of Judge Hewitt

The judgment that was handed down some time ago by Superior Court Judge Hewitt against Spencer Robinson, mayor of Glendale, and F. H. Vesper, also of Glendale, officers of the former Glendale-Verdugo Land company, was affirmed, Thursday by the district court of appeals, according to a notice appearing in a Los Angeles newspaper this morning. The opinion was written by Judge Houser, with Justices Conrey and Curtis concurring.

The action was brought against Mayor Robinson and Mr. Vesper by S. J. Reid, Mary E. Shropshire and H. M. Pierce, stockholders in the land company, who, according to the notice, alleged that secret profits had been made by at least one official of the company by misrepresentation to the other stockholders with regard to the amounts involved in transactions conducted in the name of the company.

According to the decision handed down by Judge Hewitt both officials are responsible.

The judgments, the notice states, were for $2956.10 each to Reid and Mrs. Shropshire and $1478.05 to Pierce.

The company, it is understood, was organized in 1910 and forfeited its charter in 1916 by failure to pay its license tax.

VILE LIQUOR DISPOSED OF

One hundred and fifty-five gallons of liquor, taken when H. Cohn of Los Angeles was arrested Thursday morning, was emptied into the gutter in front of the city hall Thursday afternoon at about 2:30 o'clock. Chief Fraser was overseer of the job and Lieut. Royle, Officer Blake and several others of the force officiated.

KIWANIANS RAISE $500 FOR ANTI-NARCOTIC FIGHT

Sum Quickly Pledged by Whole-Hearted Club Members

Five hundred dollars of the one thousand needed to put on the anti-narcotic crusade in Glendale by the International Anti-Narcotic association, of which Capt. Richmond Pearson Hobson is the chief promoter, was raised at the regular meeting of the Kiwanis club held at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse at noon today. This was taken in the form of 50 memberships at $10 each, the money derived from these memberships to be used in the underwriting of the campaign of education in which literature, showing the terrible effects of the narcotics that are now being used, will be distributed to every child in the local public schools and also to the parents in every home in the city.

The work of subscribing for the 50 memberships by the Glendale Kiwanians came at the conclusion of an address on the period of the narcotic evil by Capt. Hobson.

Hardly had Capt. Hobson ended his talk when the true Kiwanis spirit became manifest. Kiwanian "Jimmy" McBryde sprang to his feet and moved that the rules of the organization be suspended for five minutes and that during that time those present be given an opportunity to assist in the underwriting. Cam Thom quickly seconded this motion and the vote was in favor of the move.

Kiwanian Lyman P. Clark then rose and asked for contributions, and the way those Kiwanians "came through" was good to see. The teaching of the ideals of the club was instantly manifested and the red-blooded manhood of which the club is made demanded expression. Secretary Don Webb could not write fast enough. The subscriptions came in thick and fast. When the smoke cleared away 38 memberships had been received.

Jesse Smith, president of the chamber of commerce, rose and after suggesting that possibly there were several present who would like to raise the amounts pledged, volunteered to increase his to $25. Several others did the same and by the time the fireworks had ceased the entire fifty memberships had been pledged. One-half of the amount necessary for the putting on of this anti-narcotic campaign of education had been raised, and the Kiwanis club of Glendale had placed itself in the lead of all the organizations of this section in the battle against this terrible drug.

The checks of those subscribing will be paid to Don Webb, and the check for $500 made out by Mr. Webb will be photographed.

For a half hour Capt. Hobson, who is an honorary Kiwanian, and who was a Spanish War comrade of Col. John Fraser, Glendale police chief; Capt. William H. Reeves, city manager; Lyman P. Clark and Cameron Thom, at once thrilled and horrified his hearers. The subject of his talk was "The Perils of Narcotics."

"Heroin," said Capt. Hobson, "is the most powerful drug that the world has ever known. It is generally referred to as 'snow.' On account of the small amount necessary to do the work its use is easily spread. The addicts have a mania for getting others to use it. It is not now a question of 'saving the few who use it,' but of self-preservation.

"The habit can be contracted within one week. Our High school boys and girls who attend 'snow' parties for a single week or ten days become addicts for life. The habit cannot be broken. Medical science once claimed that 10 out of every hundred treated could be cured, but investigations show that 9 of that ten resume the practice.

"Heroin is four times as powerful as morphine. When a small amount of the drug is taken the system naturally developed anti-toxin to combat it. A larger amount must be taken each time to satisfy the craving. When the effects of the dope wear off the fury of the pent-up anti-toxin is felt. The muscles pain, the whole system becomes gripped with agony. If the drug is not administered the patient will die.

"The unsuspecting person never dreams when he or she is first taking the drug that a terrible habit is being formed, but once an addict always an addict. The use of the drug has grown frightfully in this country. Per capita the use of heroin in Italy is 1 grain per year; in Germany, 2 grains; in England, 3 grains; in France, 4 grains, and in the United States, 36 grains.

"Those in authority tell us that practically all of the crimes committed these days are done by heroin addicts. An addict believes he is an hero. When the craving comes he will get the drug if he is compelled to kill for it. He robs his victim, and very often later kills him. His moral responsibility leaves him when he starts the habit."

Just Off the Wire From Here and There

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 5 (United Press)—Ed Lockart and Frank Nash, remnants of the notorious Al Spencer gang, were in jail today at Vinita, Okla., under heavy guard. They were captured last night by federal officials and sheriffs forces near Leach, Okla.

According to United States Marshal Alva McDonald, who, with a posse of officers, shot and killed Al Spencer near Bartlesville, recently and rounded up a dozen of the outlaw's pals, the capture of Lockhart and Nash marks the end of the outlaw reign in the southwest.

"These men have spread terror for years in western Oklahoma," McDonald said. "Spencer and his gang robbed more banks than Jesse James."

CASPER, Wyo., Oct. 5.—The sixteenth and probably nearly the last body that will be recovered from the Cole creek wreck scene, was taken out during the night.

An accurate check made by Burlington officials of all persons at any time reported on the train shows 12 missing, including trainmen, which would make the total dead 28. A few of these, however, were not definitely known to have been passengers and may be found later alive.

COHN NOW TO ANSWER TO FEDERAL AUTHORITIES

Poor Cohn!

H. Cohn of 337 Temple street, Los Angeles, was arrested in Glendale the other night for transporting liquor. He plead guilty and was fined $500, which he paid.

Upon being released he was rearrested by the federal authorities, who, according to Chief Fraser, want him on several illicit liquor charges. Chief Fraser stated that Cohn jumped bail to the amount of $17,000 on these charges, which it is understood will be pressed by the federal authorities.

Things are looking pretty bad for Cohn.

Events of Interest to Glendale and Its People

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Walton and family have moved from 336 North Ellis avenue, Eagle Rock, to 633½ North Orange street, Glendale.

Judge Harry W. Chase is tending office alone today, his secretary, Mrs. Dallas Malone, being ill of grippe.

E. H. McDonald and wife are here from Brunswick, Mo., and are living at 323 West Broadway. They say they are here to stay and that all their children are coming, also.

Mrs. Lawrence Medley, an old friend and classmate at Occidental of Miss Bessie Field of this city, has been her guest this week. Mrs. Medley's home is in New Mexico on the famous Hook Stock ranch.

Glendale friends who enjoyed a two days motor trip to Santa Barbara as the guests of Mrs. Harriet W. Patterson of Los Angeles included Mrs. Wm. Nichols, Mrs. W. H. Wagner, Mrs. A. H. Lapham and Mrs. Ella Wells.

Friends of Smith MacMullin, manager of the Glendale Creamery company, have been wondering as to the cause of the big smile he is wearing this week. The more inquisitive have found that the reason for the happy contenance is the fact that Smith is the winner of a $50 silver trophy won last week in a dance contest at a popular Los Angeles establishment.

Mrs. Shives Mitchell and three children, John Alexander who is 2 months old, Ferguson and Billy, of King City, are the guests of Mrs. Ella Richardson of North Brand boulevard and will be here the balance of the week. It is the first visit Mrs. Mitchell has been able to make her mother in six months though they saw each other this summer when Mrs. Richardson visited her daughter and son-in-law. It is Teachers' Institute Week in King City, and Billy, who is a kindergartener, has a vacation from school in consequence, hence the visit at this time.

Miss Miller, stenographer of Secretary E. F. Sanders of the Chamber of Commerce, is confined to her home by illness.

Mrs. C. W. Craig of Riverside, who had been the guest of Mrs. Frederick Field of North Kenwood for a fortnight, returned to her home the early part of the week.

Mrs. Anna Ehlers and three daughters, formerly of Sunset boulevard, Los Angeles, have purchased a home and are now residing at 615 East Chestnut street, Glendale.

George A. Black, a veteran of the Civil war, 81 years of age, who resides at Sawtelle, is the guest this week of his brother, Frank B. Black, 114A West Dryden street. He is a hale and hearty old boy who looks equal to service in another war should his country demand it.

Dr. and Mrs. R. W. Hulett of Champaign, Illinois, who arrived here about a week ago are planning to make their home on West Broadway. Dr. Hulett visited Glendale last winter and was so impressed with the activities here that he decided to make his home here. He will open an office in the Lawson building. Dr. Hulett specializes in treatment of the eyes, ears, nose and throat.

Messrs. Craft and McKinnon of the S. W. Brown company at 463 West Los Feliz road left Glendale this morning for Providence, Rhode Island, to demonstrate "Comalt," the popular chocolate malted milk manufactured by this firm. CHANGE MADE IN FOR INCOME TAXES FILING SYSTEM

Three hundred thousand income taxpayers in the Southern California Internal Revenue district who will file returns for the business year 1923, will be affected by a change made in the system of filing returns, notification of which was received from Washington yesterday.

Under the new policy form 1040-A, which has been used for making returns of net incomes not exceeding $5,000, will be used exclusively this year for returning net incomes of not more than $5,000, which are derived chiefly from salaries and wages.

Form 1040, which heretofore has been used to return net incomes exceeding $5000 will be used in all cases except where the net income not exceeding $5,000, is derived chiefly from salaries and wages.

In other words wage earners and salaried men and women will use form 1040-A and form 1040 by taxpayers whose chief income is derived from other sources than wages or salaries.

Collector Goodcell said that in view of the fact that it is not possible to determine at this time the class of return which will be utilized by 1040-A taxpayers whose names appear on the lists of this district, he had decided to mail blank forms 1040-A and 1040 to all 1040-A taxpayers and the taxpayers could then select the proper form on which to make his return.

Y. M. C. A. CLOSING MEETING HELD THURSDAY NOON

Directors of the Glendale Y. M. C. A. held their closing monthly meeting of the year and luncheon Thursday noon with Chairman David Black presiding, and covers laid for C. W. Ingledue, H. L. Finlay, W. F. Tower, H. P. Arnold, C. D. Lusby, T. E. McGuire and Secretary Rex. Kelley.

Treasurer Lusby submitted a financial statement of the year's work, and Secretary Kelley reported on the year's activities.

The most important action taken was a vote endorsing the Community chest and agreement to participate in it instead of putting on the customary October canvass for funds.

A letter was read from W. B. Kirk, dated at Brussels, Belgium, in which he told of visiting European Y. M. C. A.'s and declared it is time Glendale had a Y. M. C. A. building. In this connection the board decided to visit the Hollywood Y. M. C. A. tomorrow and inspect the first unit of its new building, which is considered the last word in Y. M. C. A. construction.

The board also voted to attend the fall Y. M. C. A. round-up of committeemen and leaders of Southern California to be held in Santa Monica October 27-28.

ROUTINE AFFAIRS OCCUPY TIME OF K. C. COUNCIL

Routine business was handled at the regular meeting of Glendale Council No. 1920, Knights of Columbus, held Thursday night at the clubhouse at 330 East Lomita avenue with Grand Knight Jesse Smith in the chair. Arrangements were completed for the establishment of a charity fund to take care of members of the council and their families who might be in need.

The committee on Columbus day reported that arrangements are being completed for the celebration of Columbus Oay on October 12. There will be several noted speakers of Southern California in Glendale on that date and will give talks on the "Life of Columbus," the place of meeting to be announcd later. In the evening of October 12 a dance will be given in the Knights of Columbus clubhouse that will be open to the people of Glendale in honor of the day.

Installation of the new officers will take place at the meeting on Thursday, October 18.

LEWIS JEWELRY CO.'S OFFER TO PRESENT GIVERS

The vexatious problem that bobs up every year about this time, that of selecting Christmas presents while there's an unbroken stock to choose from and not be compelled to pay for them to be laid away, has been most agreeably solved by the Lewis Jewelry Co., 133 N. Brand boulevard. Boldly defying all precedents this enterprising company is inviting customers to select their presents now and have them laid away until Christmas time without one cent of deposit. They can be paid for when taken away, just before the happy Yuletide arrives. Surely this frankly offered privilege is a boon which every prospective giver of a present will highly appreciate, especially when one considers the wonderful stock of jewelry, watches, clocks, dainty ornamental pieces, etc., that are offered to choose from.

See the ad in this issue for full particulars.

Tri Mu Class Has Anual Banquet

About 50 members of the Tri Mu class of the Glendale Baptist church Sunday school had a rousing time at the annual banquet of the class in the basement of the Baptist church Thursday night.

Speeches, reports, songs and general good will were the order of the evening. The purpose of the meeting was to hear the reports of the various committees and to plan for the work of the class during the coming winter.

At 7 o'clock a delicious dinner was served by the ladies of the church. Between the courses songs were enjoyed, and following the repast the business of the class was transacted. The latter part of the time was taken up by a musical program.

A novel feature of the evening was the constructive criticism on the work of the various officers and committees. The committee report was given by the chairman, and then the criticism on what might have been done and what should be done in the future was given by another member of the class. The outlook of the class for the coming winter is exceedingly bright. Much work was outlined.

During the evening Park Arnold was elected to the presidency of the class to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Rene Olin, and J. Ray Bentley was elected vice president.

Dr. Louis Webber of Los Angeles, who is just completing the addition of a store room to his building on Los Angeles and Montrose avenues, is planning to build another store room on Montrose avenue. Dr. Webber will also build a residence on his property on Los Angeles avenue, just north of the Webber building, which will add much to the attractiveness of the locality.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Culberson motored to San Francisco, yesterday, where they will be the guests of friends for a week.

E. E. Laughrey of Pasadena, has leased the new store room, nearing completion in the Webber block on Los Angeles and Montrose avenues for a hardware store. Mr. Laughrey is an experienced hardware man and has the distinction of starting the first hardware store in La Crescenta. He is the step son of J. L. Bowlus, the grocer, also in the Webber building.

Mrs. George Smith of Los Angeles is the house guest of her cousins, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Brown of Los Angeles avenue.

LA CRESCENTA NOTES

Rev. H. A. Kelso presided at the regular meeting of the La Crescenta Improvement association last night in the absence of President C. E. Culberson. During the business session Dr. E. N. Nettleton, chairman of the entertainment committee for the benefit dance, given last month, reported the dance netted the fire equipment fund, $323.26. Door receipts were $47, refreshments, $57.36; tickets sold, $172; donations, $73.75. A motion was made and unanimously carried that the association go on record as being opposed to objectionable sanitariums in the residential districts and the following committee, C. E. Culberson, George Dunlop and Geily Koltz, were appointed to investigate.

Greily Koltz, the editor of the Montrose-La Crescenta Star, gave an interesting talk on community cooperation. Wallace M. Morgan of the Record-Ledger, who is well known in the Foothill district, gave a splendid talk on the valley and its people. Rev. H. A. Kelso, pastor of the La Crescenta Community church, told of the progress of their building, now nearing completion, and of the drive in progress for chairs for the auditorium.

Clarence Whitehill, Who Will Appear at the Glendale Music Club Opening Concert, Oct. 12

Clarence Whitehill, famous operatice baritone, who will appear at the opening concert of the Glendale Music club at the auditorium of the Tuesday Afternoon club on the evening of October 12, does not believe that art can be obtained in a hurry and he advises all young singers to realize this inexorable fact in the following words:

"Only through hard work and through suffering do the deepest things in a man come to life. When I hear of a young singer making a sensation at his debut, I always feel a misgiving. I ask myself, does that singer know the true meaning of his success, does he realize that he is yet far from perfect and that the public is ready to acclaim one moment some unusual merit, and condemn the next the shortcomings which that merit first obscured? That is why a European training in many opera houses is the best foundation for success at the Metropolitan.

When a singer is truly master of his art, and only then, is he able to face successfully the supreme test of a season at the world's greatest house of song. Only wide experience can render him able to cope with the standards then set for him. He must know exactly what he is and exactly what he must do. He cannot trust to luck, he cannot improvise; his art must then be well rounded, firmly grounded and unshakable. If possible let him sing first in at least two countries and in two languages. When he succeeds both at the Paris Opera and Opera Comique, and at the Opera in Vienna, or La Scala in Milan, then he may know that he is ready to make his debut in New York. Of course there are exceptions, but even these exceptions would have benefited by a course in the opera houses of Europe. That art is long and life is brief is no idle phrase. There is no singer who can spring full fledged from a teacher's studio, like Pallas full armed from the head of Jove."

Truths in Epigram

Prosperity is not without many fears and distastes; and adversity is not without comfort and hopes.—Bacon.

Marriage and hanging go by destiny; matches are made in heaven.—Burton.

It is always good when a man has two irons in the fire.—Beaumont.

THE RIGHT TO THINK

One of the purposes of education is to teach people to think; to arouse their mental faculties so that they may reason out things for themselves. Perhaps a new idea is regarded as revolutionary by those of settled opinion. The fact that they are jarred in their beliefs is not important. If they have believed that which may not be sustained by fact and logic, they are the wiser for having been disturbed.

Mr. Bryan, a man of high principles doubtless, and sincere even when mistaken, would not knowingly lower the standard of human intelligence. Nevertheless he is zealously devoting himself to this end, unconscious of the effect of his teaching. He is being imitated, but in his chosen attitude was himself an imitator. When he teaches that evolution is a myth, he is assuming a role no more dignified and no more justifiable than that of Voliva, who declares the earth to be flat, and sunrise and sunset a pair of optical illusions. He stands even on the plane of the Rev. Jasper, who won notoriety by proclaiming "The sun do move."

In certain schools for mature students, it is planned now to exclude such books as do not harmonize with the Bryan theses. Bars are sought to be erected across the pathway of the human mind. Facts are to be concealed, so that the judgment of the individual does not follow upon a knowledge of the truth, but must rest on arbitrary and biased interpretations ignoring the existence of any chance that the whole truth was not known in the time when this puny earth was regarded as the center of the universe.

But truth is not to be suppressed. Mortal intelligence, questing after truth, will find it. The effort to limit thought, and cut certain fields off from the exploring mind, cannot be otherwise than futile.

A SAMPLE SLAVE

Mrs. Belmont affirms that women are slaves. Being a woman herself, she automatically takes her place in the ranks of the enslaved. As a sample of slave, as an instance of the down-trodden, as one of the crushed, she is not an impressive exhibit.

In so far as women are in serfdom, the males of the species have to share the discomforts of the situation. They are at least equally serfs. In most cases their bondage is more galling. Not only are they victims of circumstance, forced to direct their activities into certain channels, under the obligation to provide themselves with food and shelter and clothes, but they must see to it that the feminine slave, rattling her begemmed manacles, also shall have these useful things.

There are many women now who are independent; at least as independent as the masculine element of the social structure. They have gone out to earn their own livings. In this respect they have proved themselves capable. They have received the practical endorsement of men. Of course they do not find the sailing altogether smooth. They have to demonstrate their worth in order to win salaries. So do their brothers in the field of endeavor. If members of one sex are slaves, so are members of the other.

For such an individual as Mrs. Belmont, whose life has been marked by luxury, and wholly devoid of any occasion to labor, to rise in her Paris gown, as the advocate and champion of the working woman, of or women in general, is an anomoly. She has nothing in common with those over whom she assumes the pose of guardianship. The allegation that she is a slave is nothing short of grotesque.

Women of the Belmont class may be rated as slaves only to the extent that they elect to be subservient to fashion and to tradition. These are chains of bondage they have sought, and they are at liberty to break and throw them away any time they feel like doing so.

MAKING NEW WORDS

Occasionally a new word is born. Thus language nas developed. The early vocabulary, it may be assumed, was sparse. As new conditions arose, and from them sprang complex ideas, there had to be an articulate symbol. Otherwise people would have been inhibited from talking, relying mostly on signs.

One hears of "morticians" now. Nobody had heard of them a few short years ago. Apparently the makers of dictionaries have not heard of them yet, but the lexicographer does not lead. He follows. He finds out what language is, what a word means, and sets it down in his book. This setting gives an aspect of permanency, and is the warrant of good repute.

Anybody inclined to laugh at "morticians" for their choice of title might as well go slow. He would, to be consistent, have to laugh at "realtors," a large and influential set of active persons, collectively immune to criticism. Why shouldn't an undertaker, or a funeral director term himself a mortician if he likes it? No reason in the world. The absence of the necessary word was not a hinderance, for nothing is easier than taking some letters and arranging them in unique but pronouncable form. Equally, the real estate dealer had the privilege of calling himself a "realtor." One soon becomes aware that "realtor" means a real estate dealer, and that "mortician" means a funeral director. Thus confusion is but temporary, and everybody ought to be pleased to see the language grow.

THE ESTEEMED CENT

A cent is not much, and two cents is not a large total, but contemplation of it is enough to cause a hiatus in the procession of automobiles to the station for gasoline. The buyer now has to pay a 2-cent tax on each gallon of the fuel. This brings the cost to 15 cents per gallon. He had become accustomed to paying 13 cents, and the advance demonstrates anew the timidity of capital. It shies at the current figure. Only a few days ago the price of gasoline was 22 cents. Sometimes the consumer remarked that he thought this too high, but as a rule payment was made without grumbling. The purchaser understood the reason for the expenditure. He was getting gasoline for it. Now he fails to see clearly what he is getting for the extra 2 cents. He has a feeling that he is giving it to somebody. This apprehension is due to error. He may be sure that he is getting his money's worth.

The funds collected in this manner will be devoted to upkeep of streets and highways. It will smooth off the bumps and fill the hollows, thus making the roads safer and better for the millions who ride. There could not well be a more desirable investment for the automobilist. He will be getting returns on his money all the time. Of course the slump in sales is temporary, due to the fact that every owner filled his tank to the limit just before the tax became operative.

According to Captain Perigord of California Tech, just back from France, the people of Europe feel that they have been deserted by the United States. There are plenty of people here who think that this country did withdraw too soon from overseas affairs. Nevertheless it is difficult to see how in the present circumstances, an outside power could do anything to help. Europe is distinctly on its bad behavior, determined in courses that make for disaster and turmoil. Its salvation rests with itself. If it won't try to be good, the rule for spectators will have to be "Hands Off."

Eloquence is but ordinary gab with its holiday clothes on.

A FACTOR IN LONELINESS

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

Unless one is ugly, repulsive or deformed, fear is likely to be the chief cause of any loneliness from which they may suffer.

Estella Lawton Lindsey

Fear seals the lips of travelers sitting side by side on long journeys; it keeps neighbor from speaking to neighbor; it holds young people back when they are moved to go places where they might meet congenial companions; it stops marriages that without it would occur and bring joy and contentment to the contracting parties.

A very lonely girl said to me a few days ago:

"I have had a number of opportunities to meet people since I have been in the west, but I am always afraid I might meet the wrong kind, and so I have declined."

With that philosophy most of us would go through life as hermits. It is always possible, everywhere and at any time to meet undesirable people. Since they predominate in the world we can not avoid them; and there is no reason, aside from priggishness, why we should not be polite to them even when we do not care to cultivate them.

Of course if one is very young, inexperienced or unable to discriminate one should meet nobody unless he has first been O. K.d by a trustworthy friend or guardian. Even then there is no guarantee that the one who has received the O. K. may not ultimately turn out to be unworthy of it.

In a small city where I once lived the chief cashier in the leading bank, son of one of the most refined and beloved women in the city, turned out to be a plain thief. He robbed his bank and when caught showed a callous indifference to his deeds that shocked the entire community. The history of every city will show similar incidents.

Sitting at home fearing is much less intelligent than faring forth and investigating. If people prove undesirable we can always let them drop from our visiting list. Contrary to our most cherished beliefs the world is full of people who are just as good as we.

Besides, there is always the question of who is desirable. I have in my mind one young man who refused to visit a lovely girl, prominent and refined, because he had put two churches on his index expurgatories and she belonged to one of them. His fear of her church was greater than his judgment or his appreciation of the many good qualities of the young woman, and so he remained lonely. That he ultimately married a girl of his own belief, but later got a divorce, did little to cause him to change his views of what was desirable in women.

This is not a plea for promiscuous association with the great unwashed, it is merely a hint that many of us might enjoy companionship and a wider choice of friends if we could manage to banish from our systems a silly fear of meeting our "inferiors."

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

You never know your luck. The best thing that ever happened to Charley Hodges was the loss of his job.

"It didn't seem so at the time," said Charley. "I almost starved."

It had been considered a good job but Charley had not saved much money on it. The expense of upkeep was too considerable. He had such an important place in his communal life that he felt he must live up to it. When he lost the job he had a wife and a pair of kids and some furniture and about enough money to balance his debts.

"I didn't borrow money," said Charley, "I hustled for another job, but'I kept my lip stiff.

"'I want a better job than I lost,' I told everyone. 'Anything else is only temporary.'"

His need forced him to get down to bedrock with himself. He began to use his brain. He found schemes for making and saving money in other men's businesses and sold the ideas. He was equipped to do certain specialized work and he did it. He ate less and walked more and found himself in better health. And he did not whine.

"If I had ever begun to complain," said Charley, "I would have lost my grip. I know myself. Nothing so breaks down the personal moral as a whine. I dared not even feel sorry for myself or afraid for the future. But—believe me—I hustled."

Not long ago his former employer offered him a better job than the one he lost. It was a supreme satisfaction to Charley.

"I can't afford to take it," said he. "The day you fired me you trebbled my value."

It might be worth while my trying to sketch some of the more noteworthy, now that my story is slowing for a while—like a French train when the engine-driver sees a long curved tunnel in front of him, as I do—and no light at the other end!

My humble attempts at characterization might be useful as "memoires pour servir" to future biographers. Besides, there are other reasons, as the reader will soon discover.

There was Durien, for instance—Trilby's especial French adorer, "pour le bon motif!" a son of the people, a splendid sculptor, a very fine character in every way—so perfect, indeed, that there is less to say about him than any of the others—modest, earnest, simple, frugal, chaste, and of untiring industry; living for his art, and perhaps also a little for Trilby, whom he would have been only too glad to marry. He was Pygmalion; she was his Galatea—a Galatea whose marble heart would never beat for him!

Durien's house is now the finest in the Parc Monceau; his wife and daughters are the best dressed women in Paris, and he one of the happiest of men; but he will never quite forget poor Galatea:

"La belle aux pieds d'albatre—aux deux talons de rose!"

Then there was Vincent, a Yankee medical student, who could both work and play.

He is now one of the greatest oculists in the world, and Europeans cross the Atlantic to consult him. He can still play, and when he crosses the Atlantic himself for that purpose he has to travel incognito like a royalty, lest his play should be marred by work. And his daughters are so beautiful and accomplished that British dukes have sighed after them in vain. Indeed, these fair young ladies spend their autumn holiday in refusing the British aristocracy. We are told so in the society papers, and I can quite believe it. Love is not always blind; and if he is, Vincent is the man to cure him.

In those days he prescribed for us all round, and punched and stethoscoped us, and looked at our tongues for love, and told us what to eat, drink, and avoid, and even where to go for it.

Then there was Carnegie, fresh from Balliol, redolent of the 'varsity. He intended himself then for the diplomatic service, and came to Paris to learn French as it is spoke; and spent most of his time with his fashionable English friends on the right side of the river, and the rest with Taffy, the Laird, and Little Billee on the left. Perhaps that is why he has not become an ambassador. He is now only a rural dean, and speaks the worst French I know, and speaks it wherever and whenever he can.

It serves him right, I think.

Then there was the yellow-haired Antony, a Swiss—the idle apprentice, le "roi des truands," as we called him—to whom everything was forgiven, as to Francois Villon, a cause de ses gentillesses surely, for all his reprehensible pranks, the gentlest and most lovable creature that ever lived in bohemia, or out of it.

Always in debt, like Svengali—for he had no more notion of the value of money than a humming bird, and gave away in reckless generosity to friends what in strictness belonged to his endless creditors—like Svengali, humorous, witty, and a most exquisite and original artist, and also somewhat eccentric in his attire (though scrupulously clean), so that people would stare at him as he walked along—a thing that always gave him dire offense! But unlike Svengali, full of delicacy, refinement, and distinction of mind and manner—void of any self-conceit—and, in spite of the irregularities of his life, the very soul of truth and honor, as gentle as he was chivalrous and brave—the warmest, stanchest, sincerest, most unselfish friend in the world; and, as long as his purse was full, the best and drollest boon companion in the world—but that was not forever!

Then there was Dodor, the handsome young dragon de la garde—a full private, if you please, with a beardless face, and damask-rosy cheeks, and a small waist, and narrow feet like a lady's, and who, strange to say, spoke English just like an Englishman.

And his friend Gontran, alias l'Zouzou—a corporal in the Zouaves.

Both of these worthies had met Taffy in the Crimea, and frequented the studios in the quartier latin, where they adored (and were adored by) the grisettes and models, especially Trilby.

Both of them were distinguished for being the worst subjects (les plus mauvais sujets) of their respective regiments; yet both were special favorites not only with their fellow-rankers, but with those in command, from their colonels downward.

Both were in the habit of being promoted to the rank of corporal or brigadier, and degraded to the rank of private next day for general misconduct, the result of a too exuberant delight in their promotion.

Neither of them knew fear, envy, malice, temper, or low spirits; ever said or did an ill-natured thing; ever even thought one; ever had an enemy but himself. Both had the best of the worst manners going, according to their company, whose manners they reflected; they were true chameleons!

Both were always ready to share their last ten-sou piece (not that they ever seemed to have one) with each other or anybody else, or anybody else's last ten-sou piece with you; to offer you a friend's cigar; to invite you to dine with any friend they had; to fight with you, or for you, at a moment's notice. And they made up for all the anxiety, tribulation, shame, and sorrow they caused at home by the endless fun and amusement they gave to all outside.

It was a pretty dance they led; but our three friends of the Place St. Anatole (who hadn't got to pay the pipers) loved them both, especially Dodor.

One fine Sunday afternoon Little Billee found himself studying life and character in that most delightful and festive scene la Fete de St. Cloud, and met Dodor and l'Zouzou there, who hailed him with delight, saying:

"Nous allons joliment jubiler, nom d'une pipe!" and insisted on his joining in their amusements and paying for them—roundabouts, swings, the giant, the dwarf, the strong man, the fat woman—to whom they made love and were taken too seriously, and turned out—the menagerie of wild beasts, whom they teased and aggravated till the police had to interfere. Also al fresco dances, where their cancan step was of the wildest and most unbridled character, till a sous-officier or a gendarme came in sight, and then they danced quite mincingly and demurely, en maitre d'ecole, as they called it, to the huge delight of an immense and ever increasing crowd, and the disgust of all truly respectable men.

They also insisted on Little Billee's walking between them, arm in arm, and talking to them in English whenever they saw coming towards them a respectable English family with daughters. It was the dragoon's delight to get himself stared at by fair daughters of Albion for speaking as good English as themselves—a rare accomplishment in a French trooper—and Zouzou's happiness to be thought English, too, though the only English he knew was the phrase "I will not! I will not!" which he had picked up in the Crimea, and repeated over and over again when he came within ear-shot of a pretty English girl.

Little Billee was not happy in these circumstances. He was no snob. But he was a respectably brought up young Briton of the higher middle class, and it was not quite pleasant for him to be seen (by fair country-women of his own) walking arm in arm on a Sunday afternoon with a couple of French private soldiers, and uncommonly rowdy ones at that.

Later, they came back to Paris together on the top of an omnibus, among a very proletarian crowd, and there the two facetious warriors immediately made themselves pleasant all round and became very popular, especially with the women and children; but not, I regret to say, through the propriety, refinement, and discretion of their behavior. Little Billee resolved that he would not go a pleasuring with them any more.

However, they stuck to him through thick and thin, and insisted on escorting him all the way back to the quartier latin, by the Pont de la Concorde and the Rue de Lille in the Faubourg St. Germain.

When he saw Taffy that evening, he exclaimed: "I say, Zouzou's mother's a duchess!"

"Yes—the Duchesse de la Rochemartel-Boissegur."

"You never told me!"

"You never asked me. It's one of the greatest names in France. They're very poor, I believe."

"Poor! You should see the house they live in!"

"I've been there, to dinner; and the dinner wasn't very good. They let a great part of it, and live mostly in the country. The Duke is Zouzou's brother; very unlike Zouzou; he's consumptive and unmarried, and the most respectable man in Paris. Zouzou will be the Duke some day."

"And Dodor—he's a swell, too, I suppose—he says he's de something or other!"

"Yes—Rigolot de Lafarce. I've no doubt he descends from the Crusaders, too; the name seems to favor it, anyhow; and such lots of them do in this country. His mother was English, and bore the worthy name of Brown. He was at school in England; that's why he speaks English so well—and behaves so badly, perhaps! He's got a very beautiful sister, married to a man in the 60th Rifles—Jack Reeve, a son of Lord Reevely's; a selfish sort of chap. I don't suppose he gets on very well with his brother-in-law. Poor Dodor! His sister's about the only living thing he cares for—except Zouzou."

Chrismas was drawing near.

There were days when the whole quartier latin would veil its iniquities under fogs almost worthy of the Thames Valley between London Bridge and Westminster, and out of the studio window the prospect was a dreary blank. No morgue! no towers of Notre Dame! not even the chimney-pots over the way—not even the little mediaeval toy turret at the corner of the Rue Vieille des Mauvais Eadres. Little Billee's delight!

The stove had to be crammed till its sides grew a dull deep red before one's fingers could hold a brush or squeeze a bladder; one had to box or fence at nine in the morning, that one might recover from the cold bath, and get warm for the rest of the day!

Taffy and the Laird grew pensive and dreamy, childlike and bland; and when they talked it was generally about Christmas at home in merry England and the distant land of cakes, and how good it was to be there at such a time—hunting, shooting, curling and endless carouse!

It was Ho! for the jolly West Riding, and Hey! for the bonnets of Bonnie Dundee, till they grew quite homesick, and wanted to start by the very next train.

They didn't do anything so foolish. They wrote over to friends in London for the biggest turkey, the biggest plum-pudding, that could be got for love or money, with mince-pies, and holly and mistletoe, and sturdy, short, thick English sausages, half a Stilton cheese, and a sirloin of beef—two sirloins, in case one should not be enough.

For they meant to have a Homeric feast in the studio on Christmas Day—Taffy, the Laird, and Little Billee—and invite all the delightful chums I have been trying to describe; and that is just why I tried to describe them—Durien, Vincent, Antony, Lorrimer, Carnegie, Petrolicoconose, l'Zouzou, and Dodor!

The cooking and waiting should be done by Trilby, her friend Angele Boisse, M et Mme. Vinard and such little Vinards as could be trusted with glass and crockery and mince-pies; and if that was not enough, they would also cook themselves and wait upon each other.

When dinner should be over, supper was to follow with scarcely any interval to speak of; and to partake of this other guests should be bidden—Svengali and Gecko, and perhaps one or two more. No ladies!

For, as the unsusceptible Laird expressed it, in the language of a gillie he had once met at a servants' dance in a Highland country-house, "Them wimmen spiles the ball!"

Elaborate cards of invitation were sent out, in the designing and ornamentation of which the Laird and Taffy exhausted all their fancy (Little Billee had no time).

Wines and spirits and English beers were procured at great cost from M. E. Delevingne's, in the Rue St. Honore, and liqueurs of every description—chartreuse, curacoa, ratafia de cassis, and anisette; no expense was spared.

Also, truffled galantines of turkey, tongues, hams, rillettes de Tours, pates de foie gras, "fromage d'Italie" (which has nothing to do with cheese), saucissons d'Arles et de Lyon, with and without garlic, cold jellies peppery and salt—everything that French charcutiers and their wives can make out of French pigs, or any other animal whatever beast, bird, or fowl (even cats and rats), for the supper; and sweet jellies, and cakes, and sweetmeats, and confections of all kinds, from the famous pastry-cook at the corner of the Rue Castiglione.

Mouths went watering all day long in joyful anticipation. They water somewhat sadly now at the mere remembrance of these delicious things—the mere immediate sight or scent of which in these degenerate latter days would no longer avail to promote any such delectable secretion. Helas! ahime! ach weh! ay de mi! eh eu! oimoi—in point of fact—alas!

That is the very exclamation I wanted.

Christmas Eve came round. The pieces of resistance and plum-pudding and mince-pies had not yet arrived from London—but there was plenty of time.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

A statement that relief ships bound for Japan had been recalled and ordered to turn back in mid-ocean was published recently in a Los Angeles paper. The statement did not appear as a rumor, but a news item frankly set forth, its truthfulness not to be questioned.

HENRY JAMES

The publication caused much curiosity. There were inquiries made about it from many quarters. Contributors to the relief fund even called at Red Cross quarters and demanded their money returned. No sign of explanation up to the time of this writing had been vouchsafed.

Clear enough an explanation is due. If so startling an order had been issued beyond question the people of the United States were entitled to know the reason. If there had been no such order, the explanation is owed by the paper that circulated the report.

Since then other ships laden with food and supplies have been dispatched to Japan. Expressions of gratitude for American generosity have been received from the Japanese government and from many individuals. These facts tend to expose the item cited above as an odd and irritating deception.

There does not seem anything strange in the fact that there is fighting in Germany. Circumstances for a long time had pointed to such an outcome. It is a little confusing, however, to determine just who is fighting whom, and the reason for it.

The reader observes that the Monarchists have attacked a force that seems to be the regular army. Communists have clashed with the police on a scale that made the encounter a battle. The Reichwehr troops are no more friendly to the communists than to the Monarchists they are attacking, while the communists hate everybody, and it is the duty of the police to put down any disturbance however created.

December is quite a distance off. The proposed date leaves a long interval during which the executive job of keeping the peace threatens to be a strenuous one.

The charge is made against an oil operator, whose activities were based on Texas lands that he sold to California investors thousands of units beyond the number he had permission to sell; that the property in Texas was worthless, covered by a mortgage anyhow, and by previous claims that would have shut the stockholders from participation, had there been anything in which to participate.

There was a time when anybody could peddle Texas oil units in California and gather a harvest of suckers, but it seems to have passed.

One of the first fruits of recognition of Mexico is seen in its yield of American criminals who no longer find that country a refuge.

Among those who have come back is the Lamar chap, who had earned the title of "Wolf of Wall street," a characterization distinctly libelous of canis lupus. He had jumped his bail in New York, the bail being so high that he used an airplane.

The triangle embracing Madame Tingley and the Mohns is perhaps the most remarkable that has been displayed. Mrs. Mohn won from Madame Tingley as damages by alienation of Mohn's affections, the sum of $100,000. The husband desires the money paid to himself so that, as there is reason to believe, he may hand it back to the Tingley woman.

It is certain that the angles of a triangle can't be right.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

THANK THE STRANGER

We all have a blind side toward our children. We think we see them correctly, but we don't. We see, generally, what we think to see. We are conscious that now and then one of them does a little something that we would rather he did not do, but on the whole we are inclined to think that they are pretty good children.

Then along comes a stranger, a most disagreeable stranger and says "That child ought to be well spanked. If he was mine he'd get it and no question about it. Such manners I never saw. The boy never leaves a room without banging the doors after him or leaving them wide open, and the girl stares one out of countenance."

We have an inward spasm of recollection. Many times we have called Tommie back and told him to close the door gently or have pointed accusingly at the open door and glared him into closing it. Still that is no reason why this disagreeable stranger should talk as though the child had committed some heinous offence.

Of course, we recollect swiftly, Emily does stare. Wherever you find her she is sitting round-eyed, her gaze fixed intently on some distant point, perhaps on the end of some nervous person's nose; or following from point to point the uneasy movements of some restless, irritated soul seeking refuge from their needle-like penetration.

Many, many times we have hurried her exit a trifle and whispered excitedly in her ear that staring is a very rude thing, a most annoying disconcerting thing, and no well-bred child ought to indulge in it. Yes, yes, we remember it!

But then, where does this disagreeable stranger come in to criticise children? Where are his paragons? Dead, no doubt, pestered into an early grave—or perhaps he never had any. Most likely. Those who have the least to do with children have the most to say about them. Anyway——

Exactly. But let's not get so warm about it! Grin a little, because, after all, it is rather funny. Why should we have thought that our children were so nearly lovely that even the irascible stranger within the gates would turn affectionate eyes upon him?

Then take a sober second thought. All unknowingly we have kept our blind side toward the children and they have acquired little mannerisms and bigger faults that we would be the first to deplore.

Then we'll watch the reaction of the stranger to our children and weigh his remarks discriminatingly. He who has no personal bias, no emotional background for them, who preserves a remote, dispassionate attitude toward them may be seeing them more accurately from at least one angle than we are.

So we'll grin and silently thank the stranger for his hint and act upon it or not, as our several dispositions permit.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

Following is the report of the organization committee of five composed of W. E. Hewitt, Mrs. Daniel Campbell, Jesse E. Smith, George B. Karr and Dr. Warren Z. Newton, which was appointed by the preliminary Community Chest Committe to formulate a plan for a permanent organization. The report was presented at a meeting of the general committee held at the Chamber of Commerce Thursday night and unanimously adopted:

1—That the name of the organization be "Glendale Welfare Chest."

2—That the object of the organization be to make the community's endeavors for social betterment more effective; to raise and distribute funds for these agencies desiring to participate in joint financing.

3—That the membership shall consist of all contributors to the Glendale Welfare Chest.

4—That the advisory board be known as the "Glendale Welfare Chest Council" to consist of about fifty members—one from each local organization desiring to be represented, a selected list herewith submitted and such additional members as may be selected by that body.

5—That the active management of the affairs of the organization be committed to a board of directors of twelve members, nine men and three women.

6—That the officers be president, first vice-president, second vice-president, recording secretary, corresponding secretary and treasurer to be elected annually from the members of the council, the directors for the first year being suggested later in this report.

7—That the standing committees be: Budget and endorsement; publicity campaign; finance and accounts; central service and such other standing and special committees as may be authorized by the board of directors. Details of organization and operation to be worked out by the board of directors with the advice of the council.

The following persons are suggested as the nucleus of the council: Messrs. C. H. Toll, L. C. Brand, W. E. Hewett, Dr. H. E. Harrower, David Black, Jesse E. Smith, Peter L. Ferry, Stanley Franz, Geo. CHIEF VOLLMER SPEAKS TONIGHT IN BURBANK

Tonight is the time of the big meeting at the auditorium of the Edison school in Burbank, the feature of which will be the address of Chief of Police August Vollmer of Los Angeles and Clarence L. Morril, Chief of the Bureau of Criminal Identification at Sacramento.

Chief Vollmer is a national figure in his work as is Mr. Morril. Both men are perhaps the best known officers in the west and the message which they will have for the officers of this part of the state who may be able to attend will be an inspiration.

This meeting, while it was planned for the purpose of affording an opportunity to officers to hear these two gentlemen, yet it will be of interest to any citizen or father or son, and the general public is invited.

Glendale people who are interested in the subjects these men will speak on should help fill the auditorium to capacity.

BITTER WRANGLE OVER COLUMBUS FIGHT DECISION

[By Associated Press]

COLUMBUS, Ga., Oct. 5.—Although Mike McTigue of Ireland still retains his world's light heavyweight crown under the third decision rendered by Referee Harry Ertle after the Irishman's ten-round bout here yesterday, his opponent, Young Stribling, today is the rightful holder, in the opinion of Columbus fight fans. Promotef J. Paul Jones of the local American Legion post so informed Chairman Muldoon of the New York state boxing commission in a telegram sent him last night demanding a thorough investigation by the commission of yesterday's tumultuous event.

Jones' telegram was sent after Referee Ertle, who at first declared the fight a draw, and then, when the crowd of 4500 displeased fans charged the ring, changed his decision, giving victory to the 18-year-old Georgia schoolboy, had issued a written statement officially declaring the fight a draw. The statement, issued from the obscurity of a private residence here, contained the assertion that the referee had been threatened with death if he didn't give the decision to Stribling and charged that Major Jones had forcibly held his arm and that of Stribling aloft. McTigue and Joe Jacobs, his manager, both issued statements in which they declared they had been threatened with death if McTigue did not fight.

PRESENT STYLES FAVOR THE HOME DRESSMAKER

Loose One-piece Gown Is Easily Made as Colors Can Be Combined

Styles at the present time are very favorable to the home dressmaker. In the first place the loose, one-piece gown falling straight to the hips in a variety of models takes little cloth, is still exceedingly popular and easy to manufacture. In the second place combinations of materials and colors are allowable.

A ruffle or a band around the bottom of a skirt is very smart and it makes an easy way to lengthen a dress that would otherwise be too short. Touches of deep, bright, cornflower blue on dark blue or black are proving popular and these often take the form of a narrow pleated ruffle on the bottom of a skirt, but a plain band is equally in the mode.

The home milliner who has the time and talent to embroider with silk and bead hat crowns that reflect Chinese needlework, can provide herself with headwear that would cost a small fortune if purchased from the professional milliner. Never has lavish needlework had so big a place in hat making as this season.

The close toques of velvet stitched in squares loosely draped and folded over the frame and garnished with a single projecting ornament of silver or beads, are very much in evidence on good dressers, and should be easy for clever fingers to make.

GLENDALE PIONEER GIVES CAMPING RECIPES

Tells of Good Old Times When G. A. R. Hall Was Amusement Center

"Camping recipes? Say, you should have been here in the good old days when Glendale had a population of not to exceed a thousand, when everybody knew everybody else, when there were no picture shows to go to and when the picnic was the leading outdoor sport," said the pioneer citizen.

"Then was when we had real camp feeds and my mouth waters now when I think of some of them. I mind the time we got Mr. Fishel over on Park avenue to hitch his team to a hay rack and drive a party of us to Griffith Park. At that time G. A. R. Hall was the amusement center of our burg and we all met there. It was before the upper road was finished and we took the lower one and drove into Bee Rock Park.

"What a supper that was! I can taste the fried chicken now. Everybody kept chickens then and dug their potatoes out of their own back lots. And the lots in those days measured an acre or more.

"Somebody brought a great basket of roasting ears, also from the home lot, and somebody else brought a lot of little clams. The boys built a roaring fire in one of the concrete camp stoves and piled the corn in the husk as it was o ntop the stove, sprinkling it from time to time to keep it from drying out and burning. It steamed there in its own sweet husks. The clams were also laid flat on the top of the stove where they opened as they cooked and when they were done we were all summoned to the feast which was topped off with lemon pie, cake galore and steaming coffee. Yum! Yum!!

"When Fishel drove us home he crossed on Tropico Avenue (now Los Feliz boulevard) to Glendale avenue and after he turned north drove his team onto the Salt Lake track which is now being electrolized by the Glendale-Montrose company, jolting us over the ties as fast as he could make his horses gallop. Everybody had to cling to somebody else to keep in the cart and we were sure a laughing, screaming bunch when we got to good old G. A. R. Believe me, those were great days. Wish I could live 'em over again."

REACTIONS IN NEW FURNITURE

Reaction is equal to action and after a long period in which the French white and gilt has held sway, modified by modern conditions and environment the newer fashions are restoring to favor the more valuable dark woods in furniture for milady's boudoir. Happy is the housewife who held onto the treasures of her early married life, who can now have them restored for a place of honor. While over-stuffed furniture is still popular, more of the wood framework is showing.

For California there is a steady and growing demand for wicker furniture the scope of which has been so greatly enlarged by the manufacture of day beds, tables and chairs of every sort. It has the great merit of being light in weight and therefore easy to handle; it is attractive but unpretentious, and with cushions and covers can be brightened to fit any color scheme at comparatively small expense. It seems to especially fit the summery climate of this state.

MRS. CHARLES TOLL SCORES WOMEN BOOZERS

Glendale women should be very proud of the stand taken by their townswoman, Mrs. Charles H. Toll, president of the district federation of women's clubs, who, when addressing the Wednesday Morning club of Los Angeles this week, severely criticised the persons who abused hospitality at the opening of a new hotel Tuesday evening by appearing at the opening in a state of intoxication. She called upon women to make good their pledge and respect the constitution of their country, including the 18th amendment, whether they privately endorse prohibition or not. Her point was that the American woman who desires to be worthy of citizenship and of value to her country, cannot afford to defy its laws and advertise that she sets them at naught. She dwelt on the sacredness of the constittuion and urged her hearers to unite in support of the nation's bulwark.

Even in Glendale, if reports from persons otherwise veracious are to be trusted, no party is considered up-to-the-standard of the would-be smart set unless illicit booze is offered on the side, not because anybody wants it but because it is costly, hard to get, and therefore represents lavish expenditure and expensive hospitality.

What can we expect of the rising generation when their silly elders are ready to defy health and morals and all the laws of God and man to indulge themselves in the forbidden, merely because it is forbidden?

Yes, the cup of love contains many spoons.

CHALLENGE WOMEN TO PRACTICAL PATRIOTISM

Retiring National D. A. R. Head Uurges Women to Uphold Nation

The address of the retiring president general, Mrs. George Maynard Minor at the National D. A. R. convention in Washington was a challenge to deeper, more practical patriotism in thought, word and deed on the part of members and was of a character to appeal to every thoughtful woman who realizes in any degree the responsibilities of citizenship. She said in part:

"What does it mean to be a Daughter of the American Revolution? It means in its deepest sense a self dedication to home, country and God. You Daughters of the American Revolution are the heirs of those patriots who gave us our ideals of home, who founded our country, who had supreme faith in God, and who brought this faith into their daily lives. Yours is the heritage which means America and all that America stands for, and yours is the sacred obligation to perpetuate and defend it.

"It has been well written that those who have no reverence for their ancestors will have nothing worthy to transmit to their descendants. It is true that we are a society that looks backward, but it is not into a dead past but a living past. We look backward only that we may go forward with a greater hope and courage. It is the fashion to sneer at the past, to make it the butt of superficial jokes and radical denunciation. But the fluttering leaves of a tree might just as well give themselves airs of superiority and deny the roots. Where would they be were the axe laid to the roots and the tree cut down? This is what Americans calling themselves "Liberals' are trying to do. Unstable, wavering, they seek to cut the roots from under the tree forgetful that the tree will come crashing down, carrying them and their cheap theories to ruin.

"The craze for 'progress' and so-called 'liberal thought' is in danger of discarding the good in the past that should be permanent along with the chaff that is transitory. We sing:

" :O beautiful for pilgrim feet
Whose stern, impassioned stress
A thoroughfare for freedom beat
Across the wildnerness.'

"But are we keeping to that thoroughfare? It led onward and upward in God's evolution to the framing of a mighty nation conceived in liberty and dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal. A false semblance of this equality, dedicated to the socialistic proposition that all men should have equality of possessions, has led another mighty nation to destruction. Under the mask of peace and freedom movements, of human brotherhood movements, of international friendship movements, this socialism, by whatever name you call it, masquerades as though it and it only were that 'one far off divine event toward which the whole creation moves.' Tear off the mask and you will see it as it is—the dernier of homes, the dernier of country, the dernier of God, the negation of all that men have held sacred from time immemorial.

"Are the homes of the future safe in the hands of our girls? I believe they are. Our girls will follow the sure instincts of good motherhood and home-making.

"And next to being a good mother is being a good teacher. Look well to your schools and the kind of teachers who are teaching your children. We want teachers who are of high character, high ideals and unimpeachable loyalty to America. Guard well your schools lest the life of the nation be poisoned at its source."

OUT OF THE MOUTHS OF BABES

Little Dorothy had been presented with a small candy cat by her aunt and it furnished amusement for nearly a week. One day it was missing, however, and her mother asked her if she had lost it.

"No, mamma, me didn't losed it," replied Dorothy. "Me des played wif it till it dot so dirty me des had to eat it."

Teacher—"Lester, can you tell me the difference between 'like' and 'love?'"

Small Lester—"Yes'm; I like my mamma and papa, but I love pie."

TREND OF FASHION

By HELEN MERRILL EMERY

A Three-piece Suit Shows a Chinese Influence

In the model illustrated both frock and coat are of brown velvet with decorative embroidery done in brown silk of a darker shade. Stitching of silk appears on the narrow panel in front and flat velvet-covered buttons extend on either side from the neck to the bottom of the coat.

If one's dress is of cloth or heavy crepe a coat of this type would be quite as appropriate as though the frock were of the same material.

The draped tam of brown velvet is one of the hats which is striving vigorously to supplant the popular cloche. It remains to be seen whether it can be done. Time alone will tell.

FASHION'S FREAKS

Monogram Bedspreads

A bedspread of unbleached muslin has wide bands of pink and in the center a stunning diamond-shaped monogram. It is called the monogram bedspread.

Necklaces of Smoked Pearls

Extremely new and chic are necklaces of smoked pearls. They come in various lengths, including the choker and opera lengths.

Brown Suede Cloche for Fall

For early Fall, either for sport's or town wear, a cloche of brown suede is particularly good. The hat is trimmed with small leaves of the suede in the same color and also in lighter brown cut out and sewed closely around the crown. Smart oxfords of brown suede are worn with the hat.

Plaid Velour New and Smart

Velour has been with us a number of seasons but plaid velour, a material which has a velour surface but a plaided color design, is distinctly new. Dark blue velour with a plaid of French blue is particularly smart.

New Lingerie Collar and Cuffs

Quite new and different is a square lingerie collar that is embroidered all over with fine braid and edged with real Valenciennes. High cuffs accompany the collar.

Attractive Glass Tea Set

A glass tea set that is heat proof is particularly attractive when the handles are bright blue in color.

Unusual Leatherware from India

Leather that is painted and treated by some process until it is glossy makes most unusual boxes, portfolios and pen trays. This ware, imported from India, is extremely colorful.

Colorful and Decorative Shawl

A square shawl of Roman stripes, edged with wide fringe, is wonderfully colorful and decorative.

A Sign of Good Health!

The sign that signals the ice man is a sign of good judgment on the housewife's part. It indicates that she has given real thought to the food problem, and that she knows the economy of keeping her refrigerator well filled with ice every month in the year.

Fall weather is changeable. Nights are cool, but days are often warmer than 50 degrees. And whenever perishable food is kept in a warmer temperature than 50 degrees—it is actually spoiling, though it may take time for the spoiling to become noticeable.

Ice costs little, but it adds much to your family's health and enjoyment of pure, wholesome food. Ice will pay for itself in the food it saves.

BUSINESS MOVING SIDEWISE SAYS BABSON

Babson Reviews the First Nine Months of 1923

WELLESLEY HILLS, Mass., Oct. 5, 1923.—"Business will have a sidewise tendency for the remainder of the year," says Roger W. Babson. In a statement issued today the statistician discusses developments during the last nine months which furnish an illuminating and helpful picture of business for the executive and investor who must judge developments for the last quarter of the year.

"Going back to August, 1922," says Mr. Babson, "we find readjustment of post-war inflation half completed with general activity increasing and confidence running high. As a result, conditions improved and business picked up. In fact, the recovery was so rapid that it carried us above normal in the last week in December starting 1923 on a very active and prosperous basis. Being a premature development, however, such prosperity could not last and after the first six months of the current year we dropped back to a continuance of readjustment. This has given us two sudden changes with decidedly mixed conditions which have confused and upset the calculations of a great many business men.

"This boom during the first six months of 1923 witnessed a remarkable increase on the production of basic and industrial commodities. The volume increased 38 per cent from June 1922 to June 1923. The output of pig iron climbed from 2,361,000 tons to 3,229,000 tons from June 1922 to January 1923 and to 3,668,000 tons in June 1923. Copper production increased from 95,222,000 pounds in June 1922 to 112,159,000 pounds in January 1923, and to 124,869,000 pounds in June 1923. Petroleum showed an increase from 45,559,000 barrels in June 1922 to 51,467,000 in January 1923 and to 61,364,000 barrels in June 1923. Boots and shoes increased from 24,831,000 pairs to 30,774,000 pairs and 30,962,000 pairs for these same respective months. Since July, however, this activity has receded. The United States Steel corporation is operating about 80 per cent of capacity today. Its unfilled orders are now only 5,910,000 tons as compared with 6,386,000 in June and 7,043,000 in March of this year.

"The cotton mills which were running large productions early in the year have shut down but will probably resume activities on another price scale this fall. Automobile production has been the greatest in history, but has exceeded demand at present price levels. A score of price cuts since July 15, have resulted. Tires are in approximately the same condition, price cutting indications are now in evidence. Building materials rose to a peak in the late spring and declined somewhat since. Lumber is now selling at 13 per cent below April quotations.

"Wholesale commodity prices as a group reached their peak in March of this year when the Babson commodity index stood at 186. Its September reading is 166, a decline of twenty points or 11 per cent. Copper is selling at about pre-war average. Paper has declined slightly. Steel is selling at about 11 per cent below its recent high. Seasonal strengthening in most commodities may occur this fall but the long swing indication points to a new lower price level.

"The agricultural situation," continued Mr. Babson, "is not as bad as it has been painted during the last few months. The price now quoted for December delivery of cotton is 28 1-2c a pound. This multiplied by the indicative production of 10,788,000 bales gives an approximate return to the cotton planter of $1,537,290,000. Last year's production was only 9,762,069 at a price of 26c a pound yielding a total value of $1,269,000. In other words, the purchasing power of the cotton farmer this year is 18 per cent greater than it was in 1922. The corn belt is practically as well off as it was last year, as far as purchasing power is concerned. Corn prices for December delivery are quoted at 72c a bushel while production is indicated at 3,076,000,000 bushels which gives a return to the corn farmer of $2,214,720,000, compared with last year's revenue of $2,110,220,000. In other words, the returns to the corn farmer in total are actually higher than they were last year.

"It is the wheat farmer whose income has been greatly reduced and it is his story that has colored the whole agricultural outlook in the mind of the general public.

The combined production of winter wheat and spring wheat will be about 789,000 bushels. It should produce $828,450,000, figured on the basis of $1.05 a bushel quoted for December deliveries. Figures for last year were 862,091,000 bushels at $1.23 a bushel with a total return to the wheat farmer of $1,060,372,000. This means that the wheat grower realizes an average of 22 per cent less than he did a year ago.

"The farmers' difficulty these last two years has been due to the abnormal spread between agricultural prices and industrial prices. This situation is gradually righting itself. So far, the adjustment has been affected by the lowering of the industrial prices rather than the increase of income to the farmer. This balancing tendency may be interrupted from time to time by divergent movement of either group but will continue over the next few years until a more equitable adjustment has been reached between the prices of the things the farmer has to buy and the things the farmer has to sell. While we are not out of the woods as yet, by any means, the worst is over. We may be thankful for that.

"The slackening of general industrial activities has been due in a measure to increased foreign competition. This of course has been felt in the manufacturing fields and has not as yet reached the retail trade which is running about 15 per cent above a year ago. The fact that goods are moving to the consumers in tremendous volume, is indicated by the figures for freight car loadings, which have continued to make new records during the past three months. In fact, during the week of September 1, there were more cars loaded with merchandise and sent over the rails than any previous week in history. Retail trade is still good but will no doubt, reflect to some extent the slackening which occurred recently in the business of manufacturing.

"An influx of foreign made merchandise, a steady stream of which is now going over our tariff wall, will tend to keep general business here from any activity which could be characterized as a boom, because of the foreign exchange situation and general chaotic financial conditions abroad, it is impossible for the American manufacturer to compete with low cost foreign made goods on an even footing. During the next 18 months, however, this situation should adjust itself to a considerable extent.

"General business activity, at the first of the year," concluded Mr. Babson, "was running at 10 per cent above normal. A slight slackening in February gave way to another rise to approximately the same point in March. By midsummer we had crossed the normal line and gradually worked down to a point 5 per cent below normal by August 1. Our present position is 10 per cent below normal."

Present indications are that general sidewise movement with orderly readjustment will continue for the remainder of the year.

EDITORIALS BY THE PEOPLE

Editor Glendale Daily Press:

Among the news in yesterday's Press were two court items as follows: A bootlegger, one Cohn, apprehended in the act of conveying 155 gallons of a vile, intoxicating, poisonous compound, through Glendale, found guilty and fined $500; the other, an intoxicated man endangering human life by driving an automobile on San Fernando road, found guilty and fined $250. Another man similarly was guilty, fined $50. With no desire to unduly criticize anyone, I question very seriously the inadequacy of these fines. In your editorial you call them "stiff fines" in the two cases. It fail to see it at all. If the bootlegger has been in the business long a $500 fine is a small matter. He has no internal revenue to pay, no license to purchase. It really is cheaper than the old system. While the prices and profits are not to be compared with the old time, nothing short of a jail sentence will meet the demands of justice. The bootlegger is nothing else than a rebel to the state and nation, betraying its best interests for a few pairtry dollars. He is the legitimate descendant of Judas Iscariot and Benedict Arnold. He is the class that trample on the constitution and spits on the flag. He should either be given a job on the stone pile or deported to the country from which he came. So bold is the form of outlawry that President Coolidge has called a conference of governors to consider ways and means of better enforcement of the laws. Assessing a fine of dollars is too much like the old license system. Lock up the criminals and turn the autos over to the public service department.

With respect to the other class of offenders those who fill up with booze and endanger the lives of other autoists, I have this to say: It is not a fair deal to let this continue by assessing a fine. What is $50 or even $250 to some men? It may inconvenience them not at all or very little. But if they had to go to the county jail for a period, I would say give the maximum every time. They would be inconvenienced and would be sobered up for a while; would have time for meditation and introspection. Considering the large and increasing number of automobile fatalities we can scarcely be too strict with drunken drivers. They need jail sentences every time for no one is safe while they are abroad.

GLENDALE AND FRANKLIN HIGH BATTLE TODAY

Black and Red Meets Kite Flyers in Practice Combat Here

Coach Hayhurst unleashes his wild Glendale High school footballers this afternoon for a battle with the Franklin High eleven on the local gridiron. Hayhurst has had his charges eating raw meat, metaphorically speaking, for the past week, in preparation for the opening game of the Central league season two weeks ahead, and is a chance to take some of their fierceness out on the kiteflyers this afternoon.

From the way the locals have been working for the past week, they should put up a real scrap. They have been perfecting both attack and defense, and have also been working on tackling and clipping. Finer points in their play have been perfected, and a smoother working machine been created.

No dope is available on the Franklin team, as it participated in no practice conflicts this season. Today is their initial game, and will be an indication of the strength they will be expected to show on the City league. Because of the rivalry that has existed between the two schools, dating from the time the Kiteflyers were in the Central league, it is expected that today's game will be a real spirited affair.

Coach Hayhurst has not announced the line up, but it is probable that the same team will open against Franklin that started against Oxnard Saturday. It proved a mighty strong combination, and is calculated to do the stuff. Numerous subs will be shot in at intervals in order that all the players may get a chance to get into the fray.

SIDELIGHTS ON WORLD'S SERIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (United Press).—Played in two new parks, the largest baseball grounds in the world, the championship series between the New York Giants and the New York Yankees is almost sure to establish new attendance records for one or two games, if not for the entire series.

The new Yankee stadium, built at 161st street and River avenue, in the Bronx, cost more than $2,000,000, and it has seating space for 70,000 fans. It was filled only once this season, on the opening day, but its capacity was almost reached for two other Sunday games in mid-season.

The Polo Grounds was remodeled last winter at a cost of over half a million dollars and it is the finest park in the National League. The infield is almost completely surrounded with a double-deck grandstand that gives the park a seating capacity of 56,000. There is only a small bleacher section in center field that seats about 7,000.

The Giants and the Yanks set the present attendance record when they drew 269,976 fans to the world's series in 1921, when eight games were played. Owing to the short series last fall, the attendance did not approach the preceding year's mark.

Starting later than usual, the series may be bothered with bad weather this year and the general slump in interest may cause the attendance to decrease. It is considered almost certain, however, that the two parks will be filled to capacity for the first two or three games and new marks are practically sure to be established.

Last year's series between the Giants and the Yanks was one of the most drab and ordinary of all that have been played.

When forty-nine various kinds of playing records were made or equaled in the 1921 series, only one new record was made last fall and five minor marks were equaled.

The two teams made a new record when they drew $125,147 to one game.

Erin Ward tied a record by hitting two homers in one game.

Bill Cunningham tied a record by making two assists from the outfield in one game.

The Giants tied a record by not losing one game and the Yanks tied another by not winning a game.

They both tied a record by engaging in one "no-decision" game.

TROJAN GRIDDERS MEET POMONA TOMORROW

Game Marks Opening of Huge Exposition Park Stadium

Tomorrow afternoon out at the new Exposition Park stadium the U. S. C. footballers will take on the Pomona College Sagehens in their second game of the season. The Trojans played Caltek last Saturday, and although defeating the Engineers by an 18 to 7 score did not look so good as they might. The big question tomorrow will be what improvements the Trojans have made in their play in the past week. Also the showing of the Sagehens will be of interest to fans in this section of the country.

There is not much doubt that U. S. C. will down Pomona. It is not that the public is interested in—it is the strength showed by both teams. The Trojans have been heralded this season as one of the strongest teams in the west. Some, indeed, have even said that they would beat the Golden Bears. In their first showing against Caltek Saturday they utterly failed to impress. Their backfield was weak, and their reserve strength was almost nil.

On the other hand Pomona has never been considered a strong contender for the Southern California Conference title this season. The Sagehens lost most of the stars from last year's championship team by graduation, and are composed of green material this season. Of late reports have come out that they are a great deal stronger than was at first anticipated, but for confirmation of these reports we will have to wait until tomorrow, their first game.

A huge crowd is expected to attend the game, which will mark the opening of the new football stadium. In the preliminary combat the U. S. C. freshmen will meet the Santa Ana High school eleven.

Spots Before the Eyes —By Ripley

Coaches Claim Predictions Are Wrong

Yesterday we thought that we had things all fixed up. We published in this column a brief comment on the teams of the Southern California conference, remarking on their showings to date and comparing their relative strength and weaknesses. And now, just as we thought we had it all fixed up, two of the mentors of teams that we picked as tail-enders are up and yelling that they will have record-breaking teams this year. Nixon, coach of the Pomona college team came out with a statement yesterday to the effect that his team was the real stuff and that it may even beat Occidental. Coach Cushman, newly appointed mentor of Redlands university, refuses to admit that his team looks weak. So there is our whole theory exploded. As yet the coaches of Caltech and Occidental have not come forward with statements to the effect that they have no real tanbark teams this year, but football authorities at Whittier college are spreading the gloom stuff in spite of the seemingly rosy outlook in the Quaker City and the recent 58 to 0 victory of the Poets over the U. S. S. Arizona eleven.

Proving that even the coaches don't believe in dope. However, it is getting late enough in the season that it is possible to gain an idea of the strength of the various teams, from their work in action, and not alone from the way they stack up. How the coach of a team that played the kind of a game that the Poets did against the sailors, can be a crepe hanger, it is difficult to see. On the offensive and defensive alike, the Whittier team showed up like a million dollars. The vets of last season who are back on the job worked in great style, and the greener hands showed that they are not so green. In spite of denials that Whittier has a foot-team, coming from the coach of the Quaker institution, we refuse to revise our judgment of the Poet Footballers.

Redlands has not shown anything in the way of real footballers this season. In football a team is not rated high until it has been proved of a high caliber. The Redlands team has participated in no games this season,and has had little or no publicity until very recently. True six veterans of last year are on hand, but the Bulldog team of last season certainly was no football machine, and the six old players do not constitute much of a foundation around which to build a football team, for none of them are real stars. Cushman, the new Baptist coach, has installed a new system of coaching.

Quite a bit of surprise was caused by the statement made by Coach Nixon of Pomona, that the public will be astonished at the showing his men will make against U. S. C. Reports have been circulating of late that the Sagehens will have quite a football team this season, in spite of the loss of most of the veterans. But it is the same as it is with Redlands in one respect, Pomona has as yet shown no real stuff. Tomorrow the Blue and White will take on U. S. C. at the Exposition park stadium and then we will have a better idea of what the Sagehens can do this season. It appears, however, that from recent indications those who are predicting that the Pomona eleven will be a championship combination this year have not much upon which to base their calculations.

DopestersNow Think Bears Are Good

Speaking of reversals of dope, one of the most amusing is the way the critics have changed their opinion of late in regard to the University of California footballers. At the opening of the season it was freely predicted that the Golden Bears were through the winning stuff for a while, and the Andy Smith would produce no more wonder teams for several years at least. The loss of stars like Muller, Erb, Toomey, Berkey, Morrison, Nisbit, Majars, Sproutt, Latham and others, was predicted by the critics to be the death knell of the Wonder teams. But new men by the handfull have been discovered. Nichols, Spaulding, Dunn, Imlay, Whitter, Dixon, White and numerous other newly discovered luminaries are all ready to step right into the shoes of the old boys who have gone. These men were not taken into consideration by the critics who predicted a slump for the Bears.

A writer in a Los Angeles paper now ventures the following: "Another great scoring machine at the University of California, very likely another, fourth Golden Bear wonder team has been developed by Andy Smith on the Berkeley campus."

When California takes on Santa Clara Saturday it is expected that the public will get a better slant at the Blue and Gold team than it has in the previous practice games. It is safe to say the California team is still strong enough to give the other teams in the conference the hot fight of their lives. What the Golden Bear will do against U. S. C. we will have to wait to see, one thing is certain, it will be no such game as some critics predicted earlier in the season.

OXY FROSH TO MEET LA VERNE ELEVEN TODAY

With a team composed of five former members of last year's Franklin championship team, the Occidental yearlings expect to down La Verne at Patterson field, this afternoon. With a team averaging around 165 pounds, they figure to be fast enough to keep the ball rolling. So far they have only played one game and in it showed rare mid season form. If they keep this up the Tigers will again have a winning Frosh team. Last year the State championship team from Bakersfield High was the only team to beat the Frosh, and this year's team looks much better.

RUTH CRAVES HOME RUNS IN WORLD SERIES

[By Associated Press]

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Home runs have played an important part in the world's series but as yet the records reveal no startling feats of clouting by the greatest hitter of them all—Babe Ruth. The Bambino starred as twiler with the Red Sox in the series of 1916 and 1918 but, as a regular outfielder with the Yankees, he was handicapped by injuries in the 1921 series and last season was badly off form.

Playing the best all-around game of his career this year, Ruth may come into his own in the championship struggle and take his place among the hitting immortals of the title classic.

Ruth has one homer in his series record, made in 1921. The marks at which he will try to shoot this fall include the highest all-time series total, three, held jointly by J. Franklin Baker and Larry Gardner; the highest total for a single series, two, held jointly by eleven players; and the single game record of two, held by Harry Hooper and Benny Kauff.

Elmer Smith, now a member of the Yankees, holds the unique distinction of being the only player ever to hit a homer with the bases full during a series, a feat he accomplished with Cleveland in the 1920 series with Brooklyn. The homer was made off Burleigh Grimes.

The greatest fame as a series clouter belongs to "Home Run" Baker, of the old Athletics. Curiously enough, all three of Baker's circuit wallops were recorded at the expense of the Giants, two of them winning games for the Mackmen. In the 1911 series, Baker's home run off Marquard in the game of October 16, with Collins on base, and the score tied, gave the verdict to the Philadelphia club, 3 to 1. Two years later, a homer by Baker gave the Athletics their winning margin in a game with the Giants, again with Marquard pitching and Collins on the bags.

Baker's other homer, made in the 1911 series, was off Mathewson, and came in the ninth inning with the Giants leading, 1 to 0. It thus tied the score and the Athletics won out in the eleventh.

Other homers that proved deciding factors in series contests were made by Joe Tinker, of the old Chicago Cubs; Fred Clarke, when he was manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates; Danny Murphy, of the Athletics; Harry Hooper, of the Red Sox; Larry Gardner, of Cleveland; Oscar Felsch, of the Chicago White Sox; and Benny Kauff, of the Giants.

GIANTS' INFIELD STRONGER ON OFFENSIVE

On Defense the Two Infields Are About Evenly Matched

By HENRY L. FARRELL
United Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Oct. 5 (United Press).—Comparing the infields of the Yankees and the Giants it will be found that the National League champions have an edge in the power of their attack, while the two combinations are about evenly matched on the defense.

Wally Pipp, first baseman of the Yankees, is a real star, whose value to the club is not superficially apparent. Pipp is regarded by many first class pitchers as the most dangerous batter on the team. He is a hard worker, a good reliable fielder and a player of ideal temperament.

Kelly, the rival first sacker of the Giants, has only one marked superiority over Pipp, and that consists in his possession of one of the finest arms in baseball. On double plays, throwing to third and relaying from the outfield, his whip is a most valuable asset to the team. Kelly ought to be a great hitter, but he fell off greatly this year and was shoved way down the lineup. In fielding and in covering foul territory he is perhaps as good, but no better than Pipp.

The hitting power of Pipp gives the Yankees a slight edge on first base.

* * *

Two of the best second basemen in the major leagues are to be found on the opposing clubs.

Because of his ability as a hitter and a base runner, Frankie Frisch will be favored over Erin Ward.

Ward was one of the most improved ball players of the past season. He always had the potential ability to star, but it took him some time to figure out second base after he had been started at third.

In fielding, Frisch and Ward are spectacular and brilliant. Frisch is better in getting back into short rightfield but he doesn't handle the ball as cleanly as Ward and his value on double plays is thereby reduced. Frisch hits better, gets on base oftener than Ward and he is one of the most daring base runners in baseball. In tight games his ability on the bases will make him of more value to the club than Ward.

The advantage, slight as it may be, rests with the Giants at second base.

* * * z

Dave Bancroft, captain and shortstop of the present world's champions, is the spark plug of the whole team. He is erratic at times and he falls frequently into errors at the most critical times, but he has assets that overcome that weakness.

Bancroft is the brainest shortstop in the game and he carries the load of directing the team on the field. He is a fighting, aggressive player and a steadying influence upon the whole team, especially upon the pitchers.

Everett Scott was once a great shortstop, but he has slowed up terribly. He cannot cover territory with Bancroft, and he cannot throw like the Giant captain. On the middle of a double play, Bancroft has a "marked advantage over him.

Scott is more reliable and more steady than Bancroft, but drives will get past him that will never pass the Giant star. Bancroft is a more reliable batter and a faster man on the bases.

* * *

Like Scott, Heinie Groh, the Giant third baseman, is another player who has passed the day of his greatness. Groh once was the star of all the third basemen, but his legs have gone bad on him and third base is no place for a player with bad legs.

Joe Dugan is the best third baseman in baseball, one of the best of them all. He hasn't the batting average of Groh, but the hitting of the Giant third baseman is not so sensational as to make that a marked difference.

The decline of Scott has forced Dugan to cover more territory than any other third baseman in the major leagues. He can get over so well to his right that he finds it possible to protect almost half of Scott's terrain.

Dugan is a smart player, he has fine temperament and spirit. He is perfectly satisfied with his job and he has abandoned the ways of a Polly Anna that had him when he was with the Athletics.

* * *

In reserve strength, the Yanks have very little, while the Giants have the best reinforcements in baseball.

Mike McNally, who can play second, short or third, and Ernie Johnson, former White Sox shortstop, are the only two experienced reserves upon whom Miller Huggins could call in an emergency. And in a hard played series where so much money is at stake and where there is a real spirit of rivalry, the chances of a nemergency are not to be disregarded.

John McGraw has unlimited material to plug up any hole that might be caused by an accident to the Giant infield.

Jimmy O'Connell and Jack Bentley are both good first basemen, and Kelly would hardly be missed. In fact, some critics believe that the Giants would be no worse off with Kelly on the bench.

"Pep" Young and Bill Cunningham can both play second base acceptably, but they would hardly be called upon as substitutes with young Maguire, one of the most promising young players in the league, on the bench.

Travis Jackson, the Little Rock youngster, who filled Bancroft's shoes in fine shape during most of the mid-season, is a better shortstop than several who have regular jobs on other clubs.

STANFORD PLAYS NEVADA IN FIRST GAME OF SEASON

Cardinals Open Against Jackrabbits at Palo Alto Tomorrow

Coach Andy Kerr's Stanford varsity will take on the University of Nevada eleven tomorrow in the first real battle of the season. For the past couple of weeks the Cardinal campus has been aglow with optimism, and Saturday will show whether or not it is justified. Nevada is heavy as college elevens go this season, and reports have it that two of her four backfield men are exceedingly dangerous. The jack-rabbit tribe beat Davis Farm by a sufficient number of touchdowns last Saturday to argue the presence of some strength.

Coaches Kerr and Thornhill today brought an end to the intensive practice season which they have conducted for two weeks. Since September 15 the Cardinals have known nothing but football, with morning workouts at 10 o'clock, afternoon sessions at 4 o'clock and evening lectures on plays and theory. The university itself opens today and from now on the Cards must devote much of their time to study. Practices will be held once a day at 3:30 o'clock.

BEES VICTORIOUS OVER ANGELS BY 8 TO 3 COUNT

Suds Nose Out Oaks, Ducks Win Two, Seals Defeat Solons

Good things cannot last forever. Yesterday the Los Angeles Angels terminated their winning streak and dropped a game to the Salt Lake Bees, 8 to 3. The main reason for the results was that the Bees hit and the Angels did not.

Douglas started for Los Angeles, but was replaced by Walters in the fifth. The Mormons bunched 12 hits off the two Angel pitchers. Kallio heaved the entire game for Salt Lake.

Salt Lake scored three in the second on Lazzeri's home run and a couple of singles. The Angels followed with two in their half, and another in the third, making the score a tie. That was all they got the whole game. The Mormons scored two more in both the fourth and fifth, and another in the eighth.

The score:

	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Salt Lake	0	3	0	2	2	0	0	1	0	— 8
Base Hits	2	4	1	2	1	0	0	2	0	—12
Los Angeles	0	2	1	0	0	0	0	0	0	— 3
Base Hits	0	3	2	1	1	1	0	1	1	—10

[By Associated Press]

SEATTLE, Oct. 5.— Wheezer Dell defeated Walter Mails yesterday, Seattle winning from Oakland in a 10-inning game 4 to 3. Both pitchers hurled great ball. Dell established a season's strikeout record for the home grounds by fanning eleven men. Mails retired the side in the ninth with none out, and the bases full, but his own error in the tenth led to his defeat.

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 5.—Portland won two more easy games from the Vernon Boy Scouts yesterday, 14 to 4, and 6 to 3, and owing to postponed games doubleheaders are scheduled for every remaining day of the series. The Beavers are trying to pile up a lead safe enough to offset Seattle's drive for third place, and have hopes of possibly supplanting Sacramento in second. Jimmy Middleton used his second-string pitchers, Pillette and Schroeder, and they had little trouble with the Vernon youngsters while the Portland batters fattened.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5.—San Francisco's Seals took their third straight from Sacramento yesterday, 12 to 5, and now need only one of the five remaining games of the series to clinch the 1923 Pacific Coast League pennant. Thompson and Canfield were hit hard and often. Hendrix and Kelly displayed some neat stick work, the former pounding two homers and a double, and Kelly three doubles. Of the last ten contests between the two teams, San Francisco has won nine and the other was a tie.

NET PROSPECTS AT OCCIDENTAL REPORTED GOOD

All possible material for the Occidental tennis team is being brought out by the new system Coach Joe Pipal has inaugurated. The tennis teams this year are being coached by Westbrook. He hails from the University of Chicago and last year was considered one of the best players in the eastern intercollegiate circles. He has put all the men in a tourney and hopes from the winners to pick his varsity team. Dickenson, who just entered college last week is considered as being certain of a place on the Frosh team. Recently this sensational player ran Billy Johnson, former world's champion, a hard set. Johnson finally winning by a 8-6 set. With Don Palmer, Finnel, Boice, and Duff back, the year for a championship in tennis seems apparent. This year the Tigers figure on sending to Ojai, one of the best teams in the South.

HYENA PLAYS A VIVID ROLE IN THE GREAT REID FILM

"In a long stage and screen experience one finds many actors who are temperamental to the nth degree, but we recently encountered one who had them all lashed to the mast—a hyena." So said Director John Griffith Wray, director of "Human Wreckage," now showing at the Gateway Theatre.

"After three weeks of exhaustive search for a hyena who was vicious enough to carry out the ideas of our script, it took more than three weeks filming the actions of the brute.

"He worked when he wanted to and when he didn't feel like it he didn't. We actually spent a whole day trying to get him to do one or two simple tricks for some double exposures. He growled from morning to night, he cut up yards of velvet with his claws and he even took a nip at the hand of one of the men trying to keep him within camera lines.

"But," said Wray, "we got some great stuff with this fellow."

VIOLA DANA IN 'TREAT 'EM ROUGH' AT THE GLENDALE

Sixteen proposals in one evening were the result of the attendance of a dance at a mountain lumber camp by Viola Dana, the little Metro star whose most recent picture, "They Like 'Em Rough," is to be seen today at the Glendale Theater. She was, with her supporting company and director, on location for the making of the outdoor scenes for this picture. The score at the end of the evening stood: Proposals, 16; acceptances, 0; devastated lives, 16; regrets by Viola, 16.

"They Like 'Em Rough" is a Metro picture, a Harry Beaumont production from the story and scenario by Rex Taylor.

There will be one show only tonight. In addition to the regular program with Viola Dana in "They Like 'Em Rough," William Howe, manager of the Glendale Theater, through the courtesy of Joseph M. Schenck, will present in preview Buster Keaton's second feature comedy in seven parts, entitled "Hospitality."

Included in the cast with Buster Keaton will be Natalie Talmadge (Mrs. Buster Keaton), Buster Keaton, Jr., and Joe Keaton, father of Buster Keaton.

The work was directed by Jack Blystone, who directed Mr. Keaton's first feature comedy, "Three Ages." The entire cast, producer, manager and director, as well as some of the more prominent members of the Hollywood film colony, will be in attendance to see the preview.

With a special attraction of this kind scheduled, and only one evening show, it would be well for those who desire to have the special treat of being at the Glendale Theater only. The show will begin promptly at 7:30.

"RED LIGHTS" CO. FINDS SMALLEST TOWN IN THE AIR

According to members of the Goldwyn company that filmed "Red Lights," which comes to the T., D. & L. Theater today, Carriso Gorge is the smallest town in the world.

It isn't large enough to boast of a filling station or a real estate dealer; so one can imagine its size.

Clarence G. Badger and his company were on location at the Gorge for five weeks. The reason there is only one house in the town is because there is only room for one. It is located next to the railroad track at a high point overhanging the Gorge. On all thre sides there is nothing but air—no real estate.

Raymond Griffith claims that is no excuse for there not being a lot salesman in the vicinity. He said he had purchased a lot in Hollywood that has no bottom. The salesman sold him the view.

The interior of one of the bungalows at the Ambassador hotel, Los Angeles, was reproduced in this mystery drama, "Red Lights," which is a film adaptation of the stage play, "The Rear Car. One whole sequence is laid in and about the hotel.

FRENCH CLASS OPENS SATURDAY AT HIGH SCHOOL

A class in beginning French under the auspices of the University of California extension division will be organized Saturday morning, October 6, at 8:30, in room 10 of the Glendale Union High school. This class will meet from 8:30 to 10:30 Saturday mornings, covering the required two hours of work per week in one lesson.

Regular university credit will be given for this course on the satisfactory completion of six terms of work. Mrs. Ethel W. Bailey, teacher of French in the Glendale Union High school, is the instructor for this course. She may be consulted by calling Glendale 777J.

Mrs. Bailey has had valuable experience in teaching French for extension classes in San Diego and in Glendale. The conversational method is used as soon as possible and special attention is given to pronunciation.

NIGHT SCHOOL HAS ENROLLED 550 MEMBERS

Principal A. L. Ferguson of the night school at Glendale High, states that the enrollment is now up to 550. So great has been the demand for sewing that provision has been made for classes four nights a week. The typewriting classes are overflowing and bookkeeping classes are full.

HAITI CONTROLS DRUG TRAFFIC

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti, Oct. 5.—The Haitian Council of State has passed a law to regulate and control the exportation, importation, possession, use or sale of narcotics, poisons and habit-forming drugs in Haiti.

The specific purpose of this legislation is to prevent the possible use of Haiti by German firms as a base for the distribution of narcotics. Previously there was no law of any description bearing on the narcotic problem and Germany, not being a signatory to the Opium Convention, was steadily increasing its imports of such substances. The passage of the act has made Haiti eligible as a signatory to this convention.

The new law is based on that which controls the use of narcotics in the United States, with certain modifications to fit local conditions.
